

Chinese aviation industry

By Sebastian Wagner

GRIN Verlag GmbH Jul 2014, 2014. Taschenbuch. Book Condition: Neu. 212x151x7 mm. This item is printed on demand - Print on Demand Neuware - Seminar paper from the year 2014 in the subject Instructor Plans: Transportation Professions / Air Transportation / Logistics, grade: 1,7, University of Applied Sciences Wildau (Wildau Institute of Technology), course: Aviation Management 2012, language: English, abstract: Actually, a country where flying is affordable for only top 8 percent of the population is beneath any notice. But not in the case of the country called China. Recent years have seen a thriving Chinese economic development which has brought a huge demand for aviation business. The aviation market in China is expected to double in size about every eight years. As expansive as the market may seem today, it is still in its infancy. As a result, business aviation, private aviation, emergency, industrial aviation are expected to embrace for substantial growth potential. Today, the Chinese economic miracle has been fuelled in large part by a flood of foreign investment. However, the influence of Chinese government is extremely present and restricting the aspiring industry. Since China has been a socialist country, the leaders in Beijing play a predominant role...

READ ONLINE
[1002.4 KB]

Reviews

This publication is very gripping and intriguing. It is among the most awesome book we have go through. You can expect to like how the author compose this book.

-- Dr. Malika Bechtelar II

This ebook might be worthy of a read, and superior to other. It usually does not charge an excessive amount of. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.

-- Arch Upton