The zeal of Mr. Mansel, for he did not take his degree of doctor in divinity till the year 1624, did appear eminently for the good of the college in this juncture; for as he did not enter upon this charge, but to the prejudice of his preserment in the world, his sellowship being of greater emolument, and of less expence, than the headship was; fo he most readily acquitted it, when Sir Eubule Thelwall appeared willing to accept it, in contemplation of his greater abilities to enlarge the buildings, and to encrease the revenue of the college. How successsul he was in the discipline of the college appears by by the choice he made of foundanon men; such as were Mr. Phil. Flower, B. D. afterwards dean of Kilmurrey in Ireland; IX William Thomas, dean of Worcester;...
